

Monitoring coverage changes the population-level participation result

Supplementary checks after the primary analysis · fixed within-network estimates

Points are descriptive means, without new confidence intervals. Area thresholds retain different networks; they do not represent a within-network change in monitoring coverage or activation of unmeasured tributaries.